

Join us for the Chicago Museum Exhibitor's Group Fall 2017 Meeting at the American Writers Museum, 180 N Michigan, 2nd floor

Bringing Documents to Life

Some of our most meaningful historical and cultural artifacts are documents, typically less visually interesting than the ideas they represent. How have museums successfully exhibited documents and the written word and made them compelling to audiences? Five speakers from a variety of local institutions share the experiences, insights and surprises gained from making documents come to life. Hosted by the award-winning American Writers Museum in the heart of downtown Chicago.

Date: Wednesday, November 15th, 2017

5:30-6:30 pm	Explore the Museum, Networking & Refreshments
6:30-7:30pm	Presentations by representatives of the American Writers Museum and its design and fabrication team, Newberry Library, and the Chicago History Museum
7:30-8:00pm	Group Discussion: speaker Q&A and shared experiences

Entrance: 180 N. Michigan. Lobby security will direct you to the elevators to the second floor.
Getting there:

- Public transit is a great option getting to the museum. State & Lake and Randolph & Wabash CTA 'L' stations are within 2 blocks of the Museum and the Metra Millennium Station is one block south.
- Book a parking spot with the Spot Hero app thru AWM's Spot Hero page. New users can enter promo code AWM10 for a 10% discount. <https://spothero.com/chicago/american-writers-museum-parking>
- Nearby parking garages include Wabash-Randolph Self Park at 20 E Randolph, and 60 E Lake Self Park. Millennium Park Garage is accessible from Randolph Drive east of Michigan Ave.

Please bring $5.00 donation for refreshments.
